Presentation

The Master in Fashion Design and Production is a course that offers students a solid, current and very appealing training. The course seeks to meet the great evolution that the Fashion sector has presented in recent years and is positioned side by side with other training offers at the international level. The focus on Digital Technologies and on ways of communicating Fashion products is very strong, as is the development of the creative process with the support of new 2D and 3D technologies. The Fashion business, sustainability, entrepreneurship and creative industries are areas and themes that integrate the training seeking to provide students with skills that quickly position them in the fashion market.
