Presentation

The Rural Fire Protection micro-credential aims to train professionals in the Integrated Rural Fire Management System (SGIFR) to plan, organize, and implement measures to protect people, built assets, and infrastructure from the risk of rural fires. It corresponds to the AGIF micro-credential, PCIR¿Rural Fire Protection. The course covers self-protection strategies, risk communication, emergency management, evacuation, protection of urban-forest interfaces, and the development of special emergency plans, fostering the skills needed to respond before, during, and after rural fires, including in scenarios involving extreme fire behavior.
